DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Worthington et al 468'. Note that Worthington et al teach preset duty cycles stored in memory during the normal bake mode and recovery duty cycles which differ and are up to 100 percent during recovery mode, thus anticipating the claim limitations. See column 5 .

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Worthington et al in view of Ohnishi et al. Worthington et al teach the claimed oven control but do not set forth the claimed preset duty cycles as 1.5-3 of the off to the on periods nor the conventional hysteresis range of claim 2. The patent to Ohnishi et al are cited for teaching these hysteresis and duty cycle ranges as common when used in a temperature control device for a roller. In view of this teaching one of ordinary skill in heating control would have been motivated by the Ohnishi et al teaching to use the claimed hysteresis and duty cycle ranges in the Worthington et al device, these choices dependent on the end use of the oven and the accuracy desired. Note that the oven parameters in Worthington et al are programmable and such would make it well within the level of ordinary skill in the art to effect varying ranges and targets. As per claim 10 the upper range of the hysteresis is obviously a first point and the lower range the second point. As per claim 1'5 the Worthington et al device would be in a correcting mode whenever it was in the rapid recovery mode or whenever the oven temperature is higher than the first point, referenced above. AS per claim 17 note the rapid recovery duty cycle in Worthington et al does comprise 100 percent, or continuous power supply, as claimed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
